JOHN JAMES ADAMS - General Manager

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 14, 1895.

To truly appreciate the part that Jack Adams has played in the growth of the Detroit Hockey Club, and in the game as a whole is difficult. For Adams has become such a legend since taking over the reins of the Detroit team when Olympia first opened its doors in 1927, that he and the game itself have walked and prospered hand in hand.

Adams' record of achievement for Detroit is found in the record books. His teams have won more club and individual honors than any other United States hockey center in the past 27 years. He has been the one man who has literally lifted the sport to state wide recognition, and may well be the prime contributor to the entire progress of hockey in the United States.

Thus it is perhaps the scope of Adams' work which makes delineation difficult. For as his own teams have prospered, as he has set a pace and pattern for the building of sound farm systems which have produced a nearly inexhaustible stream of top playing talent, he has never lost sight of the greatness of the game and the league as a whole.

His voice has been loud in praise of hockey's greatness. And as the game has assumed new character, he has changed with the times. For Adams is the neoist, a man who believes hockey the greatest sport in the world, but one which can continually be improved.

Within him is a fierce burning loyalty to his players, and yet to his game, an almost paradoxical arrangement.

As hockey then has moved so forward so has Adams, from the boy who left his Fort William home and a railroad job to begin playing amateur hockey around the head of Lake Superior. Adams' playing career has been so often recounted that his courage, skill, and ability is legend. But certainly whatever Adams the player may have given to the game as a player has been minimized by his contributions from the executive chair.

Long service on the rules and relations committees, development of the original Pension Society, a never ending stream of fresh promotion thoughts, have all marked Adams the executive.

Through it all he has remained quite consistantly, the same spontaneous, warm, volatile personality. Jack has been blessed with keen insight into the good of his fellow man. His thirst for sports is insatiable. He follows the fortunes of Detroit's baseball and football teams avidly. He loves his city and what it stands for, as was proven during the past summer, when he was a candidate for the Detroit City Council.

His regard for hockey is manifest by his tireless devotion to it. He is never too busy to make a public appearance in the interest of his game, and it might well be said that he has dedicated himself to hockey. Such a man then is Jack Adams, and for hockey and the Detroit Red Wings, fortunate that they represented his vocational choice.

JAMES DONALD SKINNER - Coach.

Born: Selkirk, Manitoba, January 12, 1917.

Newest pilot in the National Hockey League is short, chunky, volatile Jimmy Skinner, who has become the third regular Red Wing coach in the Detroit club's history. The new mentor follows in the footsteps of Tommy Ivan and Jack Adams himself in taking over the bench direction of the six - time N. H. L. champions.

Skinner's entire association with professional hockey has been with the Detroit hockey organization. He first turned professional in the fall of 1944, and was sent to the Wing farm at Indianapolis as a defense man. Previously Skinner had been playing in the senior amateur ranks at Flin Flon, where he was scouted by the late Fred Pinkney.

Almost immediately his leadership qualities began to assert themselves. In 1945 Jimmy was sent to Omaha to captain the club on which Tommy Ivan made his professional coaching debut. In two years Skinner was given his choice of continuing as a player with little opportunity of ever reaching the National League, or of starting a coaching career.

Jimmy chose the latter. Thus in the fall of 1947 he began at the helm of the Windsor Spitfires, then the Wings' number one junior affiliate. Six seasons in Windsor followed during which Skinner - coached clubs qualified for the playoffs five times, and won the junior O. H. A. season schedule championship twice. Players who progressed from his tutelage to the Red Wings included Terry Sawchuk, Marcel Pronovost, Glen Skov, Johnny Wilson, and Dutch Reibel.

A year ago Skinner moved, with the franchise, from Windsor to Hamilton. Here he had to reassemble a team which finished a surprising third in the league standings, and which gave great promise of producing more top flight Red Wings of tomorrow.

When Tommy Ivan resigned to go to Chicago in mid - July, Jimmy was the popular organizational choice, on basis of capability, experience, and seniority, to succeed him.

Skinner has man likenesses to Ivan when the latter took over the Detroit reins seven years ago. His background is without major league playing experience. However he actually brings a more extensive period of top flight coaching to the Detroit bench than did his predecessor.

The new pilot is a deceptively quiet, mild man. He is a soft spoken individual who is recognized as a fine handler of young players, but is also a rigid disciplinarian and a fighter for his own men and their rights.

He is married, and is the father of two daughters, Holly and Karen. The Skinners make their permanent residence at Lockport, Manitoba, a suburb of Winnipeg, where Jimmy, with his father and two brothers operates a series of drive-in restaurants.

COURTNEY KEITH ALLEN - Defence

Born: Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, August 21, 1923. Height 5'11". Weight 190 lbs.

The Cinderella Man of hockey will start the current season as the utility defence man for the Red Wings. For Allen, who was purchased from the Syracuse club late last season became the oldest rookie, age 30, in the history of modern hockey, to come to a Stanley Cup winner.

Allen proved himself a sound blocker in his brief late season stint with the Redshirts, and was a serviceable player in his brief appearances during the playoffs. Thus Keith leaped from obscurity to hockey's highest honors.

Keith turned professional in 1942, played one season with Buffalo, then spent three years in the Canadian Navy. He returned to the hockey ranks in the fall of 1946 as a member of Eddie Shore's Indians in the American Hockey League. He remained with Shore until his purchase late last season, moving from Springfield to Syracuse when Shore transferred operations.

Ill fortune to some one else provided Allen with his big opportunity. A serious injury to playing coach Jake Forbes of the Sherbrooke Saints, Detroit's Quebec League farm club, left Sherbrooke shy of defense men. Chief scout Johnny Mitchell recommended obtaining the durable veteran Allen. Scarcely had he arrived in Sherbrooke when Marcel Pronovost and Len Kelly were both forced out of the Red Wing lineup by injury, and unexpected but well warranted promotion to the major league resulted.

This fall Allen's steadiness made him the logical candidate for the utility rear guard position in Detroit and it is here that he will be at the opening of the campaign.

He is married and has two children.

Born: Montreal, Quebec, September 7, 1931. Height 5'6½". Weight 175 lbs.

Returning to the Red Wings after a brilliant season in the minor league is stocky, colorful Marcel Bonin. Playing both for Edmonton and Sherbrooke during the past campaign, Bonin apparently discovered the scoring punch which he has previously lacked.

Bonin, who is a physical culture specialist, and one of the strongest men, pound for pound, to come into the National League, is one of the most popular players on the squad. A smiling, fun loving youngster, Bonin won the hearts of his teammates by his linguistic problems, and won their admiration by his courage and strength.

He first attracted the attention of the Detroit management in 1950. Playing as linemate of Jean Beliveau with the Quebec Aces, Bonin put on a battling display against the Red Wings in an exhibition game. He skated strongly and was unawed by his National League opponents.

As a result Jack Adams noted him down in his future book, and at the start of the 1952 campaign Bonin was purchased and assigned to the St. Louis Flyers. Here he distinguished himself so well as a checking forward that he was promoted to the Red Wings in late January when Marty Pevelich was injured.

Marcel saw service in 37 games, scored four decisive goals, proved to be an adept checker, and won for himself the Detroit Sports' Broadcasters' award as the outstanding first year Red Wing.

Last fall he started the season as a utility forward, but after getting into bu one game in the first two weeks was sent to Sherbrooke, to play regularly. Here his scoring touch returned. He scored 21 points in 17 games, and was immediately moved to Edmonton to bolster the Flyer attack. Again his point potency was felt, and all agreed that he was ready to return for another try at the major leagues.

Unmarried, he makes his home in Quebec. He is employed as brewery representative in the off season. He makes great claim of once having wrestled a bear at a carnival in Quebec, admits, however that he failed to throw the animal.

ALEXANDER PETER DELVECCHIO - Center.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

If young Alex Delvecchio plays a full schedule of hockey of the type he displayed in last season's playoff, he might well end the coming campaign as the season's outstanding young pivot man. For the husky Lakehead Italian, after a slow start in his third season of National League play came into a strong finish to be a key player in Detroit's drive to the Stanley Cup.

Alex, known to his teammates as "Fats", has risen rapidly in the hockey world. After two promising years as a junior in his native city, during which he matured rapidly as a hockey player, he spent a season under the late Larry Aurie at Oshawa. Here he truly blossomed into one of the top junior players in Canada. In fact he improved to the extent that he was turned professional in the fall of 1951, foregoing his final season of junior competition.

It took only six games of minor league hockey to convince Jack Adams that Alex was ready for the big time. He joined the Wings before the first month of play was completed, and has remained with the Red Wings since.

Powerful, and possessed of all of the attributes to make a well rounded forward, Delvecchio had a fine freshman season, and followed with an equally brilliant sophomore year. In fact his strong play at the end of his second year won him the center berth on the second All Star Team.

However last year he had difficulty getting started and it wasn't until midyear that he began to show the form which had prompted his rapid rise.

Easy going and fun loving off the ice, Alex is a serious, hard worker in competition.

Now, fully mature in a hockey sense he appears ready to begin his bid to achieve his full destiny as a big, big leaguer.

Delvecchio is married and has one child. He makes his permanent home in Fort William where he is employed as an automobile salesman during the off-season.

ANTHONY JOSEPH LESWICK - Right Wing.

Born: Humbold, Saskatchewan, March 17, 1923. Height 5'6½". Weight 160 lbs.

"The little guy who scored the season's biggest goal" was the tag pinned on right wing Tony Leswick last spring. For Tony, called "the Mighty Mouse" by his teammates, scored only six goals in league play and two more in playoff competition during the 1953-54 campaign. However one was the overtime goal in the seventh game of the Stanley Cup Finals which gave the Red Wings the World's championship.

Leswick is now starting his fourth season with Detroit, and his tenth season in the National League. He established his reputation as a scrappy, goal scoring forward with the New York Rangers between 1945 and 1951, then moved to the Wings in trade for Gaye Stewart.

With Detroit Leswick has primarily assumed a role in the club's defensive plan. He is their number one right side penalty killer, and is the regular right flanker on the club's principal defensive forward line.

That, despite his stature, he has done this well is attested by the club's strong defensive record. A clever, courageous player, Leswick has held his own against the biggest of the left wings in the National League.

Tony broke into professional hockey in 1942 with the Cleveland Barons of the American League. At the close of the season he was purchased by New York, only to see his hockey career interrupted by World War Two. He spent two years in the Canadian Navy, reporting to the Rangers following his discharge.

Six seasons in New York led to his second hockey shift which brought him to the Wings.

He is a quiet, low voiced determined player, whose mein and build belie his courage. Despite his size he handles himself so well on the ice that he has only been out of the lineup twice, a single game apiece, since entering the National League.

Married, and the father of three children, Leswick now makes Vancouver his permanent home.

ROBERT JOHN GOLDHAM - Defense

Born: Georgetown, Ontario, May 12, 1922. Height 6'1". Weight 192 lbs.

The elder skatesman of the Detroit Red Wings is lanky Bob Goldham, starting his fifth season in a National Hockey League uniform this fall, and at the same time beginning his eleventh year of major league play.

Goldham, now with his third N. H. L. club, has found a happy home in Detroit, where he is rated as perhaps the greatest defensive rear guard ever to wear a Red Wing jersey.

Bob's greatness stems from his unerring blocking tactics. He has mastered the technique of dropping in front of an opponent's pass or shot more fully than perhaps any previous player in league history.

The long geared Goldham came to the Wings from Chicago in the fall of 1950, one of four players who came from the Hawks in a nine-player trade. Detroit was Bob's third N. H. L. club, he having started his career in the Toronto organization back before World War II.

Actually Goldham began his professional career in the American League, being called up to the Maple Leafs at mid - season. He was a strong instrument as Toronto defeated Detroit for the Stanley Cup that season, 1942, and, following completion of the season began a three year period in the Canadian Navy.

Returning to the more peaceful battlefield of the ice surface, Bob was in and out of the Toronto lineup for the next two seasons, as he twice was sidelined by arm fractures. Feeling him to be brittle boned the Toronto management traded him to Chicago early in the 1947 - 8 campaign. Two and a half years with the Hawks followed before Goldham moved on to Olympia.

A light scorer, Bob nevertheless makes his rushes telling ones, and while his goal total is low he usually contributes a number of vital assists. He is among the most popular of the Detroit players, from a fan's eye view, and in 1953 he was awarded the fan club trophy as the team's unsung hero. Goldham's style, together with his reputation for hard, clean, sportsmanlike play, have won him a strong following throughout players and spectators alike throughout the league.

He is married, and is the father of two daughters. Bob makes his permanent home in Toronto, and, during the summer months, is employed as a salesman for the Caterpillar Tractor Company in his home area.

WILLIAM DINEEN - Right Wing.

Born: Arvida, Quebec, September 18, 1932. Height 5' 11". Weight 180 Lbs.

Detroit's college boy hockey player is sophomore right wing Bill Dineen. Dineen made one of hockey's biggest jumps last season when he moved directly from the junior ranks to a regular spot with the National League champions.

Proof of his success was his 17 - goal record, one of the highest ever achieved by a first year Red Wing. His sound all around play won him the Detroit Sports Broadcaster's Award as the outstanding freshman Detroiter.

Dineen won his position in the training camp by his equal ability as a center and right wing. He filled both posts most capably, proving a quick agility in shifting between assignments which made him a valuable spot forward.

In having made the jump directly from the junior ranks Bill followed his teammates, Ted Lindsay and Len Kelly in emulating the record of moving from Toronto St. Michael's to the Red Wings.

Bill is a second generation Dineen both on and off the ice. His father played defense in Montreal some years ago, retiring to enter the civil engineering field, and it is this field that Bill is being educated.

Part of his contract guarantees that his tuition at the University of Ottawa be provided each summer, and it is here in the off - season that the quiet, studious, ambitious Dineen is working toward his degree in civil engineering.

Unmarried, he makes his home, between hockey and studies, with his family in Ottawa.

GORDON HOWE - Right Wing.

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 195 lbs.

Perhaps the entire story of Gordie Howe can be summed up in General Manager Jack Adams' appraisal, as "The greatest hockey player I have ever seen." Certainly there is much to bear out Adams' contention in Howe's eight year National League career.

Although linemate Ted Lindsay has topped Howe in total goals and assists in his lifetime with the Detroit club, he is the only player to have done so, and Gordie, who has averaged 69 points per season in his eight season span, will start the current campaign only eight points behind Lindsay.

Howe's scoring record has been amazing. He has been the top point getter in the league for the past four seasons, consecutively. In three of those years he was the league's top goal scorer and point getter alike. Thus having won the Art Ross Trophy four times hand running he has probably set a mark which no other player will ever equal.

For that matter Howe is a young man, who should have many seasons of big league play in front of him, and it is within the realm of possibility that he will continue to add to his own scoring string, and might well hang up his skates somewhere in the distant future as the holder of hockey's all time scoring mark.

Gordie is a manager's dream. He is a docile, easy going fellow, who is a perfectly co-ordinated athlete. While he has made his mark in a scoring way he is a two way hockey player of repute, being recognized as perhaps the best defensive and penalty killing right wingman in the game, as well as being the league's most potent point producer. In addition he is a tireless, indestructable athlete, who hasn't missed a game since January 19, 1949. In that stretch he has now played 372 consecutive season games in the N. H. L. competition.

He made one of Hockey's greatest jumps when he leaped from juvinile competition to Omaha. Scouted in Saskatoon by the late Fred Pinkney in 1944, Howe moved to the Galt juniors the following fall. His transfer was refused however, and when the boy signed his first professional contract in 1945 with Omaha it was without having ever played junior hockey.

The Howe story from that point is legend. It required three years for him to find his big time legs, but his ambidexterity as a stickhandler, his easy striding skating style, and his hard shot stamped him as a certain star. He has not missed.

Last year Gord, hampered by a throat ailment, dropped below 40 goals for the first time in four seasons, and while having an ordinary year by his own standards, still topped the league in points, and enjoyed a season which any other player would have welcomed as his best.

Howe is married and the father of a son. Although he and Mrs. Howe own a Detroit residence he made his summer in Saskatoon this year. Fishing and golf occupied his time. An ardent golfer he has proven to be one of the most powerful drivers in the game within four years, and has, in practice with several American League baseball teams proven his ability to stand up as a top flight ball player as well.

BENEDICT FRANCIS WOIT - Defense.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, January 7, 1928. Height 5'11". Weight 192 lbs.

Perhaps the least heralded member of the Red Wing rear guard crew is blond, sturdy Benny Woit, now starting his third regular season on defense for Detroit. For Ben, who is a hard hitting blocker, is as quietly efficient on the ice as he is modest and unassuming away from the arena.

The husky Polish boy from Jack Adams' native city holds one of hockey's rare distinctions, that of having played on two successive Memorial Cup champions in widely separated cities. As a member of the 1947 Toronto St. Michael's Juniors, Ben saw his name go on hockey's top junior award, and a year later, while playing for the Port Arthur West End Bruins, he was a repeater.

It was his showing in these two seasons which saw him start his professional climb at Indianapolis. He spent three years on defense for the Capitols, being called up annually as a stand-by for the National League playoffs but seeing little action. However in these three years under the tutelage of Ott Heller, Ben was ready for the big leap in 1951.

That he has performed his task well if not spectacularly is proven by his continuing place in the Wing lineup. Not a great offensive threat, his value often goes unnoted. He is a sound road player, and has demonstrated great ability to rise for the playoffs. Too, he is noted as a better performer on the road, and is tabbed by his mentors as a player who improves with work and competition.

Off the ice he has the same deceptively quiet manner, but has developed a reputation for tall tales about his native Fort William, where he makes his permanent home. He is married and has one daughter.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY - Defense.

Born: Simcoe, Ontario, July 9, 1927. Height 5'11½". Weight 180 lbs.

The most illustrious defense man in Detroit hockey history is the title born by rear guard Red Kelly, who during the past season reaped more laurels in a single campaign than any other defense man in the annals of the game.

Kelly's career is listed with personal and team achievement. The red haired Simcoe tobacco farmer jumped directly from Toronto St. Michael's College, and its Junior O. H. A. club in the fall of 1947 to the Detroit lineup.

In seven seasons he has missed only 12 games. He has already scored 272 points in National League competition, ranks tenth among the all time Red Wing scorers, and lacks but six points of reaching sixth place in that illustrious group.

When Kelly was selected to the first All Star Team this season he became the first rear guard in all National League history to win a first team rating for four consecutive seasons. It was Kelly's fifth recognition in seven years, he having been placed on the second team in his third season.

Honor wise he captured the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy for the second straight year, and for the third time in four seasons. He was runner - up on the fourth occasion.

Red became a double winner when he also was chosen to receive the James Norris Memorial Trophy, as the league's best all around defense man, in its first year of competition. He barely missed becoming the first man to win three individual awards in one year when he finished second in the poll to select the Hart Trophy winner as the league's most valuable player.

Club honors have been showered on him in equal profusion. He is a past winner of the J. M. Citron Trophy for sportsmanship, and has twice been selected to win the Detroit Hockey Writers' Award as the team's most valued member.

Through all of this record of high achievement, Kelly has remained the same quiet, soft - spoken but deadly serious youngster who came from St. Michael's. He neither smokes nor drinks, not a rarity among athletes, but has yet to be heard to utter a word of profanity.

In his seven years of major league play Kelly has received only two major penalties. His record as light heavyweight boxing champion in his undergraduate days won him respect before he ever entered the league.

Kelly is a coach's dream. He is a two way player who is a tremendous threat from the point during a power play, and a spearhead of defense when his own team is short handed. A sturdy skater, he is rated as the best "foot man" in the league, being able to control and propel a puck with his skates more proficiently than many players can by stick.

A tireless player Red has taken turns at wing and center over the years and fits in well wherever he is assigned. For all around ability at all positions Kelly may leave a mark for unrivalled proficiency.

In the off - season he is a dancer and baseball player and grimly serious about the business of conditioning. He deserted his usual summer tasks on his family's tobacco farm at Simcoe during the past off - season to visit Korea at the request of the Canadian Army.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY - Defense (Con't)

Still a bachelor Red is one of the most popular and personable players ever to wear a Detroit uniform.

Born: Renfrew, Ontario, July 29, 1925. Height 5'8". Weight 165 lbs.

Oldest member of the Red Wings in point of team service is captain and left wing Ted Lindsay, who has demonstrated through a high combination of spirit and ability, his right to recognition as the greatest left flanker ever to wear a Detroit uniform.

Lindsay jumped directly from junior hockey to the Wings in the fall of 1944. After leaving Toronto St. Michael's he made his way right into the Detroit lineup, and in ten seasons he has won an almost unbelievable list of team and league honors.

In seven of his ten years as a big leaguer Lindsay has won All Star rating. Six times, including the past five seasons, he has made the first team. In this he has been selected on more All Star teams than any other left wing ever to play in the National League.

Ted reached his height when he led the National League in point scoring during the 1949-50 campaign. This won him the Art Ross Trophy for that season, and marked the first time a Wing has led the point parade.

Since then Ted has gone forward to new honors. His lifetime record is the greatest ever assembled by a Detroiter. He has tallied 527 points in major league play, a combination of 245 goals and 282 assists. He leads the all time Red Wing list in all three departments.

In all time league competition Ted is the fifth highest scorer among the active players, in total point reckoning. He is tied for fourth place in total goals with Bill Mosienko, and is but one goal behind Max Bentley. In the overall picture only six players in the entire history of the league have scored more goals than Lindsay, and within one season he might reach a rating as the third highest of all time.

Yet with the abundance of scoring marks which Ted has set, it was his defensive skill and spirit which first commended him to Jack Adams. During his early years he was primarily a checking forward and a penalty killer, until his scoring power asserted itself to the point that he became the league's most feared left flanker.

Stories of Lindsay's fiery temper and spirit are legion. He has received more penalty minutes than any other player ever to wear the red and white. Yet this same spirit is a part of Ted. It was characteristic that he battled his way onto the St. Michael's club when a scout visiting Kirkland Lake during Ted's juvinile days had rejected him. It also carried him through a crippling injury in his freshman season.

Now a more mature and somewhat milder Lindsay is still a great leader, and a man who will leave an all time scoring record for left wings on the books when he finally departs from the hockey scene.

Ted is now a full fledged Detroiter. He is a partner in a manufacturer's agency dealing with the automotive industry, is a naturalized citizen of the United States and makes his permanent home in Birmingham, a Detroit suburb. Ted is married, and has one son.

Born: Sault Sainte Marie, Michigan, November 6, 1927. Height 5'10½". Weight 170 lbs.

One of the four Red Wings who have played on six straight Prince of Wales Trophy winners, left wing Marty Pavelich stands unique. For the hard going, personable, black haired Marty has never won a single individual award or recognition in hockey, but has survived along with Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay, and Len Kelly alone in one of hockey's greatest winning streaks.

In all Marty is starting his eighth season of big time hockey. Laboriously he has climbed to thirteenth place among the all time Red Wing scorers. Where then is his value?

If you are to ask Jack Adams they will recount virtues, tangible and intangible which would assure Pavelich of a position on any National League team, and which appear to equally insure him a long career in a red jersey.

Marty is rated as one of the best defensive forwards in the league. He is charged with the responsibility of blanketing the best opposing flankmen. In addition he is rated as the most effective penalty killer in present day hockey. Add to this an ability to score important playoff goals, and you have the story of Pavelich, record wise.

However his value lies in the intangible as well. He is a holler guy, ever smiling, a booster for the teammate who is in a scoring slump, and an indefatigable worker on the ice to keep driving with his club, and off the ice to condition himself and strengthen his game.

Off the ice he is one of hockey's prize salesmen. A friendly, smiling, gregarious individual, Marty is a personable young man who loves nothing better than to talk hockey by the hour.

His life is a well-rounded one in sports. He makes his permanent home in Sault Sainte Marie, where he is a fair golfer, and a baseball player of note, managing the city's top amatuer club as well. Employment wise he serves as the local representative for Carling's Brewery, and is extremely proud of his membership in the Sault Kiwanis Club.

Marty still has a personal ambition, to score 20 goals in one season. The last two years injuries have hampered him when he seemed well on his way. However whether he achieves his goal or not he is still a name which will long remain an integral part of the Red Wing lineup.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST - Defense.

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec. June 15, 1930. Height 6'. Weight 175 lbs.

Barring injury Marcel Pronovost may well blossom into a top contender for league scoring honors among defense men during the coming season. For the husky French lad came on during the last half of the 1953 - 4 campaign to the point where Jack Adams hailed him as one of the league's truly outstanding rear guardsmen.

Pronovost, whose history parallels most of the Red Wings in his steady development through the Detroit hockey organization, showed the same two - way ability in the stretch drive and the playoffs which had won him great minor league recognition.

Marcel, originally scouted and signed by Marcel Cote while playing juvenile hockey in Shawinigan Falls, reported to Jimmy Skinner and the Windsor Spitfires in the fall of 1947. The then gangling French youngster undertook a long and determined period of education, which included conversion from right wing to defense, and the learning of the English language.

It is typical of his steady effort that he acheived sound knowledge of both phases almost simultaneously. He turned professional at the age of 19, and was assigned to Mud Bruneteau and his Omaha club. With the Knights he was a standout. Marcel was voted the United States League's rookie award, and set a record for defense men when he led all of the league's players in point scoring in the playoffs.

He was called to the Red Wings for their post season round, appearing in nine of the 14 playoff games as the Wings swept to the Stanley Cup. When the Wings defeated the New York Rangers in the final round it meant that Pronovost had become one of the youngest players in hockey to have his name placed on the historic trophy.

He opened the 1950 - 1 campaign as a utility defense player, and he was seeing little service, was soon sent to Indianapolis. Although he appeared in less than half of the American League schedule before being recalled, Marcel won a position on the A. H. L. second All Star Team.

Once returned to the Wings he left no doubt about his combined skills as a rusher and a hard going body checker, and since has been a regular player of ever growing repute.

Pronovost is married. He makes his off - season home in Shawinigan Falls, where he is employed as an apprentice electrical engineer.

METRO PRYSTAI - Center.

Born: Yorkton, Saskatchewan, November 7, 1927. Height 5'9". Weight 175 lbs.

One of the few players in the Detroit lineup who has not progressed through the Red Wing farm system is Metro Prystai. For Prystai came to the Wings in trade from the Chicago Black Hawks in 1950. The stocky Ukranian youngster is now starting his fifth year with the Redshirts, and his eighth straight season in the National League.

Like Ted Lindsay, Red Kelly, and Bill Dineen, Prystai moved directly from the amatuer ranks to the National League, and has never played a single minute of minor league professional hockey. He jumped directly from the Moose Jaw Canucks to Chicago in the fall of 1947, giving up his final season of junior elegibility to turn to the salaried ranks.

Starting as a right wing he spent two undistinguished seasons with the Hawks. However when he was shifted to a center in 1949 he blossomed forth as a hard shooting youngster. This showing led to the Wings' culminating two years of effort to obtain him.

With Detroit he has played both the wing and pivot positions. In each he has displayed ability, and the same mobility which is required of Detroit forwards, most of whom are required to be skilled in more than one position.

In his four years he has become the fifteenth highest scorer in Detroit history, and still has a great unfulfilled potential. Last season, after a relatively slow beginning, he finished strongly, and was a key player in the Stanley Cup playoffs, turning in his best playoff series.

Metro, whose first name is pronounced with a long "e", is the teen-age hockey fans' favorite in Detroit. He is a smiling, affable fellow, one of the team's many bachelors.

He makes his permanent home in Yorkton, where he plays golf and manages the local baseball team during the off-season.

EARL REIBEL - Center.

Born: Kitchener, Ontario, July 21, 1930. Height 5'8". Weight 160 lbs.

Starting his second season in the National League is stocky, brush cut Dutch Reibel, who has dogged an injury jinx ever since his advent into professional Hockey.

Reibel, who was the high point scorer among all N. H. L. rookies last season, and who finished seventh in the individual point race, enjoyed a peculiar season. Starting the season between Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe, the Kitchener Dutchman ran high in the scoring through the first half of the campaign, leading the league for several weeks. Then the old injury hoodoo struck, and Reibel played the last half of the year under wraps, following surgery for a leg injury. As a result his point potency dropped, and with it went his chances for the Calder Trophy. He finished the season runner up to Camille Henry of New York.

Earl began his career with the Detroit organization as a member of the Windsor Spitfires after compiling an outstanding record as a Junior "B" player in Kitchener. He turned professional in 1950 in Omaha, and suffered his first serious hockey injury, a femural fracture which kept him idle half of the season. Despite the handicap he finished the season with a better than one point per game scoring average.

He was promoted to Indianapolis the following season, and distinguished himself by leading the club in scoring and by winning the league's rookie of the year award. Tabbed for a Detroit uniform at the start of the 1952 game he was again retarded by injury. On this occasion he was a victim of a motor accident in mid - summer which impaired his vision, and instead of coming into the major leagues he was sent to Edmonton. Here Reibel enjoyed his best season, leading the Western League in points and pacing the club to the playoff title.

Promotion to Detroit a year ago was automatic with the results already recounted. Just when he was beginning to regain his top form during the playoffs, he suffered a fractured cheekbone, which sent him onto the hospital list early in the final round.

Now, barring injuries, he appears ready to deliver his full potential. Deceptive in size and skating style, the fun loving Reibel, (whose name is pronounced Rye'-bull), may well move into the ranks of the league's top flight pivot players.

He is a bachelor who makes his permanent home in Kitchener, where he plays baseball as a summer conditioner.

TERRENCE GORDON SAWCHUK - Goalkeeper.

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5'10" Weight 176 lbs.

Starting his fifth season of regular National League play, goalie Terry Sawchuk has already established one of the most notable records in the history of big league net minding. In four full seasons under the big tent, Terry has twice won the Vezina Trophy as the league's least scored upon goalie, and missed that same honor by a single goal on each of the other two occasions.

Too, he has never failed to win All Star recognition, having been placed on the first team three years and the second team once.

Terry came up through the Detroit organization since he was first discovered by Bob Kinnear in Winnipeg playing school hockey at the age of 14. Kinnear kept a close eye on the Croatian youngster who possessed a fine pair of hands and unbelievable speed in coordination, and when he was 16 Sawchuk moved to Galt to play junior hockey with the Red Wing sponsored club there.

A year later, after one month of junior play, he had turned professional and joined the Omaha Knights of the United States League. In his first season in the salaried ranks he won both the goalkeeping and rookie awards in the U. S. circuit, and moved up to Indianapolis. Two years in a Capitol uniform, plus a seven game fill-in for Harry Lumley when the latter was injured, convinced Jack Adams that he was ready to take the big step.

Lumley was dealt to Chicago and Terry became the regular goalie in the fall of 1950, in the manner which every one now recognizes as masterful.

In his freshman season he won the Calder Trophy, and established hockey history by winning the league's rookie award in his first season of competition in every professional league in which he played. Terry was placed on the All Star Team, missed the Vezina Trophy by one goal, and then returned to win it the next two seasons.

Last year he again missed hockey's highest goaling honor by a single goal margin.

Sawchuk has brought a new style to the game. His curious crouch, coupled with his rapid reflexes, have made him the most copied goalie in years. The style stemmed from his early athletic career which he divided between hockey and baseball. In fact he developed sufficient baseball proficiency to warrant a bid from the St. Louis Cardinal organization, which he rejected in favor of hockey.

Terry has overcome a series of physical handicaps. A teen-age elbow injury left him with a continuing calcification problem which has been alleviated but not cured by repeated surgery.

DONALD B. POILE - Right Wing.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 1, 1932. Height 5'11". Weight 165 lbs.

Newest right wing on the Red Wing squad is the younger brother of a former National League great, Norman (Bud) Poile, who personally tutored Don on his rise to his bid for the big time.

Don, or "Beaver" as he has been nicknamed, was first signed while playing junior hockey for the Fort William Rangers. Following two seasons in which he was one of their leading goal scorers, Don moved to Milwaukee of the International League. Here he spent a season under Eddie Bruneteau, who taught him many of the shooting tricks which had made Eddie a feared N. H. L. marksman in times past.

A year ago Poile was turned professional and sent to the Edmonton Flyers, where big brother Bud serves as the playing coach. With Edmonton he enjoyed a fine freshman season, tallying 26 goals and adding 33 assists. This impressive debut won for him the Western Hockey League's rookie award.

Now he comes to the Wings for his first try at the top league, ready to carry a fine scoring name forward.

Unmarried, Don makes his permanent home with his parents in Fort William.

GLEN FREDERICK SKOV - Center.

Born: Wheatley, Ontario, January 26, 1931. Height 6'1". Weight 185 lbs.

If his play over the last half of last season is a criterion, lanky Glen Skov has definitely arrived as a National League center. For "Big Sam" as his teammates call him came into his own as a scoring threat, after three seasons where his defensive play had been his principal forte.

Skov made his way to the Wings the hard way although he is their nearest approach to being a home - grown hockey player. He was born in a suburb of Windsor, across the river from Detroit. He grew up in Windsor, and while playing school hockey, gained a tryout in the Wings' Windsor junior organization.

Glen failed to make the Spitfires on his first try, but despite youth did such a creditable job of work with the Hettche club of the International League that he was a standout until sidelined with an injury the following season. At that time he rated as one of the top puck chasers in Junior O. H. A. ranks.

It took the blond Dane less than a full season to win his way to the big league. He started professionally in Omaha in the fall of 1950, and with the season only two thirds gone was called up to the National League and has never been out of the major loop since then.

The following two years Glen was the club's number one defensive center, still finding time to net a dozen goals each season. However it was in the past campaign that the big fellow came into his own. His 17 goal total was the second highest achieved by any regular center in the league.

As a result Glen is a player who is high in Jack Adams' future book. He has all the attributes necessary for stardom, and Adams hailed Glen as the best center - ice player in the league from January 1 to the end of the playoffs last spring.

Skov makes his permanent home in Windsor. Although he is an equally promising baseball player, he has foregone the diamond sport for hockey. He is married.

Born: Kincardine, Ontario, June 14, 1929. Height 5'10½". Weight 170 lbs.

Typical of the players in the Detroit organization is stocky, blond, left wing Johnny Wilson, who has come through the entire Detroit farm system to climb to his present status as a regular portside wingman on the championship club.

John, first scouted while playing juvenile hockey in Shawinigan Falls by Marcel Cote, came to Windsor with his brother Larry, and quickly established himself as a regular on the Windsor Spitfires, then Detroit's top Junior "A" affiliate.

Two years of junior play brought John to the peak required for entry into professional ranks. He began his salaried career with Omaha in the United States League in 1949. With the Knights John bagged 80 points.

He made his National League debut in February, 1950, when he was called up to the Wings for a single night's stand against Chicago. He returned to the Wing lineup during the playoffs and saw sufficient service to have his name placed on the Stanley Cup when the Wings vanquished New York in the final round. This, in his freshman professional season, was a distinction shared by few.

Promotion to Indianapolis resulted, and in 1951 Wilson started the season as a spare forward with the Wings. He saw little service, was returned to the Capitols, only to be recalled in February, 1952, and installed regularly at left wing in the Detroit lineup.

Since then John has functioned as a full fledged National Leaguer. He has proven to be a promising goal getter, and Jack Adams has rated him as one of the league's most adept wingmen in taking or giving a pass.

Throughout his minor league career John was always teamed with his younger brother, but has demonstrated his ability to make his own place in the hockey sun. Larry now is a member of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Born in Kincardine, of Scottish ancestry, John became almost a full fledged Frenchman when his parents moved to Shawinigan Falls during his boyhood. He became a fluent linguist and speaks French with a native flair.

Windsor is now Wilson's permanent home. He was married last May, works as a representative of a Windsor distiller during the off - season.
